Country Education Profiles

- Students who achieve a mark of 50% or above in at least five subjects in their Sudan School Certificate are eligible for higher education. The percentage mark is calculated from the four compulsory subjects plus the three highest optional subjects.
- The certificate is awarded if:
 - Student passes the four compulsory subjects (Arabic, English, mathematics and religion) plus one optional subject. Under this condition the range 80-100 is considered excellent and 70-79 is considered very good, or
 - Student passes three compulsory subjects (including Arabic language) plus two or more optional ones."
