“Potential Security Risks”

If you are attempting to go to a current website that warns you about Potential Security Risks, you can try entering that URL into the Wayback Machine to see if you can use the site before it was infected with malware or otherwise compromised.

Minor Changes to URL

- Remove .html at end of web address
- Remove everything after domain extension (.com, .net, etc)
- Flip between http and https in URL
- If the URL only has /catalogs and no preceding info, copy & paste remaining URL & try again

Flash?

- Adobe announced in 2011 it was ending support for Flash in 2017 & discontinuing in December 2020
- Adobe starting block Flash Player 1/12/21
- Most browsers have stopped supporting it
- IA generally wasn't able to archive Flash (its Flash video games & Flash movies repository uses a Flash emulator)

PROYECTO DE OFIDISMO

Panamenses de todas las edades, especialmente quienes se dedican a la producción agrícola y ganadera se beneficiarán del Proyecto de Ofidismo que llevan a cabo los investigadores de la Universidad de Panamá.

El objetivo es obtener el veneno de Bothrops asper, serpiente venenosa involucrada en la mayoría de los accidentes fatales, para crear un banco con veneno y realizar experimentos que permitan evaluar la capacidad neutralizante de sueros anti ofídicos producidos en Brasil, Perú, Bolivia, Colombia y Costa Rica. ACCREDITATION OF TERTIARY INSTITUTIONS

As the quality assurance body for Jamaican tertiary education, the UCJ establishes guidelines and procedures for institutions seeking accredited status for particular programmes. UCJ's granting of accreditation status to an institution is an expression of confidence in the institution's mission and goals; the quality of faculty and students; the quality of academic programmes and the level and appropriateness of resources. The assurance of quality education by member institutions is the UCJ's primary consideration in the decision to confirm or reaffirm accreditation.

WHAT IS ACCREDITATION

Accreditation is the status granted to an institution or programme that has been found, through self-study and peer review, to meet or exceed stated guidelines of educational quality.

Accreditation is a voluntary activity that promotes self-evaluation, self-regulation and accountability. The role of the accrediting body is to ensure quality through encouraging the improvement of educational standards.

There are two types of accreditation; institutional and programmatic. Institutional accreditation is accreditation of the whole institution and speaks to the general quality of the institution. Programme accreditation, on the other hand, evaluates the quality of specific programmes of study offered by an institution. The UCJ effects programme accreditation; however an institution will enjoy accredited status when all programmes are accredited. In addition a process of institutional assessment must precede accreditation of programmes in an institution.

EDUCATION CREDENTIAL PUBLICATIONS OR DATABASES:

2009-2010 Accredited Institutions of Postsecondary Education. American Council on Education, 2010. <http://www.acenet.edu/showItem.aspx?product=311966&session=D300561822394DE5B877A07F917C5402>

The screenshot shows the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA) website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the date 'DEC 05 2013' and a search icon. Below the navigation bar, the main heading reads 'Council for Higher Education Accreditation'. Underneath, there is a list of links: 'Home', 'About CHEA', 'Government Processes', 'Database of Institutions and Programs', 'Database Policy', 'Directory', 'FAQs', 'Site Map', 'News', 'Resources', 'Standards of Accreditation', 'State Approval Agency', 'State Approval', 'US Department of Education', 'The CHEA Database', 'Resources', 'Contact Us', 'Help Us Help You', 'The CHEA Database', 'Resources', 'Contact Us', 'Help Us Help You'. The main content area features the title 'Database of Institutions and Programs Accredited by Recognized United States Accrediting Organizations'. A paragraph explains that the CHEA database lists more than 6,200 degree-granting and non-degree-granting institutions and more than 20,000 programs that are accredited by United States accrediting organizations that have been recognized either by CHEA or by the United States Department of Education (USDE) or both. It also states that the information in the CHEA database was supplied by the accrediting organizations, and it has been reformatted but otherwise not edited by CHEA. A section titled 'To be "recognized"' explains that the accreditation in the database has been reviewed by CHEA or USDE and meets the quality standards of the respective organizations. The primary purpose of CHEA recognition is to assure and strengthen academic quality and ongoing quality improvement in courses, programs and degrees. CHEA recognition is based on five standards that may be found in the CHEA Recognition Policy and Procedures. The primary purpose of USDE recognition is to assure that federal student aid funds are being used for quality courses and programs. USDE recognition is based on five standards that include attention to, e.g. fiscal and administrative capability as well as recruitment and admissions practices. These standards may be found at <http://www.ed.gov/olofed/olofed/academic/academic.html> (Part 602, Subpart 602.10, Secretary's Recognition of Accrediting Agencies). A section titled 'As of January 2009, USDE publishes a database of Postsecondary Educational Institutions and Programs Accredited by Accrediting Agencies and State Approval Agencies Recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education. This is available at www.doe.gov/olofed/olofed/academic/academic.html. The database lists approximately 6,800 postsecondary institutions and programs, each of which is accredited by an accrediting organization recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education as a "reliable authority as to the quality of postsecondary education" within the meaning of the U.S. Federal Higher Education Act of 1965.' A section titled 'Some accrediting organizations and their institutions and programs appear in both the CHEA database and the USDE database. Others may appear in one but not both. Whether in the CHEA or USDE database, accrediting organizations identified in the database have been "recognized." For a list of all accrediting organizations recognized by CHEA or USDE, please click here for the "Recognition Chart."'

Accreditors exercise independent judgment about whether to seek CHEA recognition. CHEA-recognized organizations must meet CHEA eligibility standards. If the accrediting organization has USDE recognition, accreditation from the organization is used by an institution or program to establish eligibility to participate in federal student aid or other federal programs. Some accreditations cannot be considered for USDE recognition because they do not provide access to federal funds. Other accreditations have chosen not to pursue USDE recognition.

Because CHEA and USDE recognition both depend on a range of factors, users of the CHEA database are cautioned against making judgments about the quality of an accrediting organization and its institutions or programs based solely on inclusion in one database or the other. Additional inquiry is essential. Users are urged to contact the accrediting organization, institution or program for additional information.

As more fully set forth in the User Agreement for Publications of the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA), the CHEA database is provided as a public service without warranty of any kind. The database does not constitute an endorsement by CHEA of institutions or programs contained in it.

Before you may use the CHEA institutions and programs database, you must first read and agree to the terms and conditions as spelled out below.

Scanning Services

Digitizing Print Collections with the Internet Archive

Open and free online discovery and access, long-term storage and engineering file management and unlimited downloads.

We can help digitize your collections in 4 simple steps:

- Step 1: Scanning
- Step 2: Upload
- Step 3: Process
- Step 4: Share

Non-destructive color digitization using our Scribe system at one of our many scanning centers across the globe. Complete MARC records. Dublin Core & JML, for just $0.12 USD per page. Files are $0.30 USD per image and foldouts are $2.40 USD each.

Create and upload high-quality J2000 images, persistent identifiers, long-term hosting of files and management of the system and file access.

Create high quality, text-searchable PDF files, run OCR across texts to allow "search inside" all books. Add to Internet Archive search engine, display via our open source Book Reader.

In addition to long-term hosting on archive.org, your books will be integrated with Open Library, openlibrary.org, a page on the web for every book.

Please note, a $5.00 USD set up fee is applied per each general circulation item. Archive materials, microform, audio and video are just a few of the other formats that can be digitized and displayed online.

Program Highlights

- 4,000,000 books online
- 1.5 billion pages scanned
- 2,500 books scanned each day
- 60m+ million views each month
- 50 scanning centers on 5 continents
- 21 petabytes of data stored
- 50 GB per second bandwidth

Internet Archive Projects

Public TV at Archive

The Public TV at Archive is a project that provides a searchable, viewable, and streamable online archive of 2016 public TV ads, matched with fact-checking and reporting. Users can trust in partnership with trusted journalism organizations, the archive provides a free service for journalists, civic organizations, academics and the general public to track their ads in context. The first phase of the project, covering key 2016 primary elections, was funded by a $200,000 grant from the Youth Voice Challenge, an initiative of the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation. The Challenge was a collaboration joined by the Old Age Foundation, the Democracy Fund, and the Hoover Foundation. The Democracy Fund also granted $45,034 to support panel hearings of journalists in key primary states in partnership with the American Press Institute. Additional support came from personal donations from Christopher Luck ($25,000) and Craig Rosenark ($25,000). Project staff are gathering lessons learned, which will inform planning and fundraising for the second phase of the project: tracking public ads at key 2016 general election battleground states.

Building Libraries Together

The Internet Archive is one of the world's largest public digital libraries, with an enormous collection of human culture: 2 million books, 425,000 free pages, 3 million hours of television and more. However, the archive's users provide only a small percentage of these materials and to preserve the world's knowledge the public should be encouraged to contribute. The archive is embarking on a project to make the archive (and its users) community-driven by improving the tools that allow people to upload, describe and organize items. With these new tools, the Internet Archive hopes to democratize knowledge by giving global communities the ability to save, manage and share their cultural treasures for free. While Wikimedia did for encyclopedia articles, the Internet Archive hopes to do for collections of media: give people the tools to build library collections together and make them accessible to everyone. The project is supported by a $600,000 grant from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation.

Open Library

Open Library.org is comprised of two great parts: A free, digital lending library of over 2 million eBooks that can be read in a browser or downloaded for reading off-line. And, a unique project to build one web page for every book ever published. Over 25 million books already have a page at OpenLibrary.org.

Please participate in the building of this site. It is an open project - the software is open, the data is open, the documentation is open, and the site is open. Anyone can participate in this project, whether you're a librarian who wants to add records of digitized books to her local catalog, or you're a lover of books who wants to make sure his favorites are well represented, or you just want to find a good book to read for free, or you're a programmer who wants to build something new on top of this data.

Scanning Services

Internet Archive can digitize your collections and provide open and free access, long-term storage, unlimited downloads, and online file management. Internet Archive has scanned more than 400 million pages with partners ranging from the Library of Congress and the Smithsonian to New York Public Library, Harvard, and MIT. Contact info@archive.org if you are interested in having your collection digitized.

Software Archive

The Software Archive is designed to preserve and provide access to all kinds of rare or difficult to find, legally downloadable software files and background information on those files.

The collection includes a broad range of software-related materials including: Manuals, documents, white papers, books, open source files, special runs of actual software, game files, documents and prices for software games, high score and save files, various game genres, and the art of translating old real-time computer game engines.

Blackbox Machine

Internet Archive's web archive, searched in 1996, contains over 2 petabytes of data compressed in 150+ billion web captures, including content from every top-level domain, 200+ million web sites, and over 40 languages.

Archive-It

First deployed in 2006, Archive-It is a subscription web archiving service that helps organizations to harvest, build, and preserve collections of digital content. Through the user-friendly web application Archive-It partners can collect, catalog, and manage their collections of archived content with 24/7
